TAG-BOOK:

The Talal Abu-Ghazaleh Organization (TAG-Org) launched on August 23, 2007 the "Laptop for Every Arab Citizen" initiative through its member company TAG-BOOK during the Annual China Top Executives and Fortune 500 Enterprises Summit at the United Nations headquarters in New York. TAG-Book low cost computer initiative targets the basic Arab user whether at home, school, university, urban or rural regions, and aims at reducing computer illiteracy and bridging the digital divide between the Arab countries and the developed world. The value of this project is that it does not resemble traditional computer projects, which are present in a number of Arab countries. The difference is that this project specifically addresses the needs of Arab communities, and merges four main components: hardware, software, connectivity and training.
